Data is everywhere

Your data is the lifeblood of your business. It allows you to serve your customers and provides insight into what makes your world work. As your business becomes increasingly digital, protecting that data becomes ever more important. The challenge of managing an ever increasing volume of data, and protecting it adequately, means more and more businesses are turning to EACS' expert team to ensure they are protected.

Can you afford to lose it?

How much data can you really afford to lose?

That is the first question you should ask yourself when considering your data protection strategy. EACS can advise you on the best protection strategy for your organisation, mitigating against threats such as accidental deletion, malicious insider threat and the crippling effects of ransomware.

Let the experts take care of it for you

EACS' Managed Backup provides peace of mind that your critical data is securely backed up, stored off site and protected against ransomware. In the event of data loss occurring, your information can be simply and quickly restored. Our solution supports all the leading technologies and applications, including Office 365, offering you the right level of peace of mind for your business. With alerting and reporting to suit you, you can get an at-a-glance view of your data protection to give you the assurances that you need.
